Comparative Human Rights &
A Virtual International Teaching Collaboration

PROFESSOR ROSALIND DIXON, UNSW LAW

AIMS:

◊ To give students at UNSW and Oxford a broader comparative perspective on constitutional/human rights cases and a greater sense of the global nature of comparative human rights study.

◊ To UNSW students in particular a greater awareness of the possibilities for overseas post-graduate study in public law and the challenge of engaging with post-graduate students in the same field at Oxford.

METHOD:

Three stage virtual video debate/collaboration between UNSW & Oxford Law:

⇒ UNSW students create video giving an Australian perspective on key overseas human rights case.

⇒ Oxford Law watches/responds using UK & European perspective.

⇒ UNSW students watch Oxford/blog about response.
